

CREMORNE PIANIST IS AN ANGEL TO JOB.

Rogue Used Her to Decoy Him, but Ford Is Ecstatic.

Enraptured, the Old Man Gazes at and Adores Her.

IN the old, odd hall of the Cremorne Mission, on West Thirty-second street, in the vague light of a gas jet enveloped by mist, last night Orin Job Ford sat enthralled.

He had appeared against Joseph Turner in the Jefferson Market Police Court in the morning, in the character of a defrauded citizen. Turner is the man who had written to him love letters signed Eva Wright, asking for money, and to whom Ford had sent money in various sums amounting to $25, and two watches, the value of which was $21.

Turner had taken the money and pawned the watches. Eva Wright, at the court, had signed sworn statements to the effect that the love letters were written without her knowledge. It had pained Ford intensely to see her at court, standing beside the forger who had dared to use her name, of all names.

Now, Eva Wright was playing a hymn on the piano and Ford, gazing at her, sat in ecstasy. He wore a monkey-colored coat and waistcoat, a colored shirt without a necktie, and cinnamon-tinted trousers. His blue eyes were admiring in their capture. It was difficult to imagine him appearing ever in the character of an indignant, defrauded citizen. One of his former towns men, of Wolverine, in Michigan, a writer of fiction, slapped him on the shoulder and said:

Superhuman Happiness.

"I don't want to know why you are here. I ought to have known better than to trouble you; but I was anxious to shake your hand. Now you may do as you please. I promise not to try to learn your achievements, except from the newspapers."

"Well, my," said Ford, "you'll learn about them now, for in sending you to me Chance has sent exactly the confidant I want."

You are only a romance writer, so that nobody would believe you if you were ever tempted to tell the truth. Learn, then, that I enjoy the superhuman happiness of living in the companionship of an angel."

"An angel?" exclaimed his friend. "Ah, I understand! An angel, that is, a woman who is beautiful to you because you are in love with her. This figure of speech is named hyperbole, a Greek word which signifies excess."

"Do you take me for a rhetorician?" said Ford, indignantly. "A man who talks in metaphors? I say an angel, the most beautiful of all the angels."

Ford's friend looked obliquely at a policeman.

"No," said Ford, "I am not out of my head. You see this place. I came here by chance, one evening. I saw at the piano not an ordinary woman, but a being similar to the figures in paintings which we saw at the Fair, in Chicago, but in the flesh, the very being which those paintings represent."

"Oh," said his friend, "the pianist here is an angel! And she knows that you love her in her companionship!"

"No," said Ford, "for when I see her eyes casually fixed on me I do my best to look like a fool. You cannot imagine how it pains me to think, as that forger's letter intimated, that she returned my love."

"If she had returned it, my happiness would have come to an end. If she had re-

Lawyer's Hat a Cigar Holder and an Office.

Lawyer Walter Bahan, of No. 277 Broadway, walked into Judge McMahon's Court in General Sessions yesterday to argue a motion. He laid his hat on a table and began to argue. A few minutes later Court Officer Pete Seaman grabbed the hat and ran with it into the corridor.

"Hey!" shouted Bahan, "you've got my hat."

"I know it," replied Seaman, "but it is on fire. I just saw smoke coming out of it."

"That's right," said Bahan, laughing, "the smoke came from my cigar." The lawyer showed Seaman a lighted cigar held by a piece of metal. A small cloth envelope was also held by the metal.

"What kind of an infernal machine is that?" asked Seaman. "I thought you were trying to blow up the court room. I've often heard of lawyers with wheels, but you are well fixed."

"I have just patented this contrivance," Mr. Bahan told a Journal reporter, "and intend to provide my brother lawyers with them. It will save them office rent."

Mr. Bahan's patent makes it possible for a lawyer to have his office in his hat. The patent consists of a metallic arrangement fitting the interior of the crown with a cloth envelope for law papers. A little clasp just to the left of the envelope for lighted cigars.

RECORD CLAIMED FOR AIRSHIP.

San Francisco Company Declares That It Covered 5,400 Miles.

Pittsburg, Dec. 1.—The Pittsburg Reduction Company has just received from the Atlantic & Pacific Aerial Navigation Company, of San Francisco, another large order for aluminum. With it came a letter giving the names of the officers of the company. C. A. Smith is president and M. A. Terry secretary.

The letter announces that an airship constructed by this company has travelled from the Pacific slope to Cleveland and return. The time occupied was three days, and the distance was 5,400 miles.

H. S. Mathew, inventor of the gun which bears his name, is the superintendent of construction. An airship which has been successfully navigated and the aluminum for which was made here is described by Mr. Mathew as follows:

"The dimensions are: Cylinder, 38 feet 2 inches in diameter and 90 feet in length; length of forward cone, 50 feet; length of after cone, 45 feet. Total length, 133 feet. It occupies 106,000 cubic feet of space. The propelling power is a 100-horse power naphtha engine. The cylinder, engine and every part of the machine, so far as practicable, are made of aluminum.

"The ship now weighs about 5,000 pounds, and will carry more than a ton weight of provisions and passengers. The naphtha for the engine will be stored in cans, which will hold enough to drive the ship around the earth without replenishing the tanks. The skin of the ship is double and lined with hydraulic oil. It is confined in separate compartments in the upper part of the vessel and in the cones.

Upward from the stern of the vessel project a tall, tapering, white, conical structure, which changes the course from right to left. The ship is controlled by a rudder, which is a large, flat, rectangular plate, which is driven by the naphtha engine. A speed of 100 miles an hour has been attained without difficulty."

ARRESTED FOR TALKING.

Had Not Spectators Interfered Sedlock Would Have Gone to Jail.

When Martin Sedlock stopped in Park row to speak to a friend yesterday morning and was gruffly told by Policeman Howry to move on, he protested. The policeman says he swore. Sedlock says he did not. The policeman arrested him, and charged him in Court Street Court with loitering and swearing. In spite of his strenuous denial, Sedlock was fined $1, which he could not pay.

He had only just been led away to the prison when his employer, George J. Speyer, printer, No. 183 William street; Lawyer Frederick C. Train, of No. 41 Park row; and Patrick H. Keating, of No. 14 Platt street, came in. Train and Keating had seen the arrest, notified the lad's employer and gone to court to protest against the policeman's action.

The policeman persisted in his statements, so Magistrate Meade poured Sedlock for further examination today.

Won't Vacate Caldwell's Arrest.

Justice Andrews, of the Police Court, denied a motion yesterday to vacate the arrest of William Caldwell, who was arrested on November 8, and gave $10,000 bail on a charge of misappropriating $200,000 of the estate of the late James Rogers, of which he was trustee, to the loss of the beneficiaries, Mary Westerland and Flora G. Rogers.

KAISER AND POPE ARE ALLIES NOW.

An Ambassador Will Be Sent from Berlin to the Vatican.

Washington, Dec. 1.—News reached the apostolic delegation today that Herr Bernhard von Bulow, lately German Ambassador to Italy, and now German Minister of Foreign Affairs, was received by the Pope in his new capacity, on November 18. He represented to the Pope that he was commissioned by his government and Emperor William to give the Holy Father the fullest assurance of the importance attached to the maintenance of good relations between the Vatican and the Kaiser.

As a consequence, he assured the Pontiff that regularly accredited Ambassadors would be sent from the German Court to both the Quirinal and the Vatican. It is suggested that a cousin of the present Cancellor has been selected for the new post.

Besides the new German Ambassador to the Vatican, there are now in Rome, of recent appointment, M. Pombale, of France, and M. Tchernikow, the Ambassador of the Czar. This fact lends color to well grounded rumors that France, Russia and Germany have arrived at a complete understanding with the Vatican as to action to be pursued in certain African and Asiatic contingencies. It was for an outrage committed upon two Jesuit missionaries that Germany is now waging her punitive campaign in China.

A New Combination.

Rapprochement between the Vatican and these three powers is becoming every day more pronounced, and the shrewdest diplomats here believe that it presages a new alignment of the great powers. It is noticed that Germany has for a long time looked upon the growing weakness of Italy and her disastrous African policy with its possibilities of European friction as evidence of her unsoundness as an ally.

The German Emperor has therefore determined that he will not be placed as the leader of the weakest combination in Europe—Austria, with her complements and dissident elements, and Italy with her weak army and overburdened budget, with Germany constantly standing as the buffer for them with the rest of Europe.

England and Italy Out.

The recent military convention of Germany with the Turks, exclusively announced in the Journal, is in line with the present development. It means simply that the Kaiser proposes the peace of Europe shall not be endangered by his weaker allies. At the same time he proposes that Italy, at least, shall by this bold move be given to understand that there is another power in Rome whose moral force can be weighed against the potency of an army unable to hold possession of an African domain against a horde of half-civilized warriors.

Several European diplomats, when informed of her underdevelopment, expressed surprise that such an important piece of news should become public first in this country, but stated that they were in no wise astonished because the general expectation was that some definite policy was to be settled upon. From now on every great power in Europe except England and Italy will be represented at the Court of the Vatican.

GERMANY ABATES HER DEMANDS.

Out of Her Good Will to Us She Will Be Easy with Hayti.

INDEMNITY CUT DOWN.

Von Bulow Informs Ambassador White That Lueders' Claim Has Been Cut to $20,000.

Berlin, Dec. 1.—The United States Ambassador, in his interview yesterday with the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron von Bulow, received emphatic assurances, couched in friendly terms, of Germany's moderate intentions in regard to demanding of Hayti an indemnity for the illegal imprisonment of Herr Emil Lueders, a German subject, and testifying to Germany's good will and respect for American susceptibility, in consequence of which the German Government has reduced its claim for indemnity to $20,000.

Mr. White explained that the United States cruiser Marblehead was going to Port au Prince, Hayti, solely to protect American interests.

GERMANY'S FIRST TERMS.

Text of the Demands Originally Made on Hayti Before the United States Interposed.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The exact nature of Germany's demands on Hayti became known for the first time today. The details came by way of the steamer from Port-au-Prince, which arrived at New York yesterday, and show the demands to be as follows:

First—An indemnity of twenty thousand American dollars for Emil Lueders.

Second—The promise that Lueders may return to Hayti and there sojourn without danger of any kind.

Third—A letter to the German Government in which an apology is to be expressed for the proceedings toward the German Government in the whole transaction.

Fourth—That the President of Hayti shall graciously receive the German Charge d'Affaires at Port-au-Prince.

It was also announced that if indemnity was not given, a war ship would be sent or diplomatic relations broken between the two countries. Without answering the demands in detail, Hayti asked if Germany by presenting this demand intended to close the negotiations in the Lueders case, and also on what ground an apology was asked.

Hayti's Honor Affected.

The money demand was regarded by Hayti as far less important than the other three, which were considered as affecting Hayti's honor. The demand that the President receive Count Schulerberg, graciously was looked upon as involving a direct humiliation, as it was this official who had gone before the President and rudely submitted his demands. It was this fourth demand which led Hayti to prepare for any eventuality.

Since the foregoing correspondence closed, it has become apparent, according to cable advices from Berlin, that the suggestion as to the sending of war ships has been modified and that there is no present purpose to send them.

Dr. von Holleben, the new German Ambassador, was seen at the German Embassy today, and for the first time since his arrival consented to speak to the press concerning the Haytian controversy. Dr. von Holleben said:

"It is simply a question of collecting an indemnity for an offense against a German citizen residing in Hayti. Beyond this all is conjecture, and there is no basis of fact whatsoever for the reports as to what might ultimately occur. The demand is similar, I am told, to one in which the United States has demanded indemnity from South American republics. As this right of demanding and enforcing the payment of an indemnity is universally recognized, I do not doubt the case will be settled in the usual manner by the immediate parties in interest, Germany and Hayti."

The Pacific Williams.

When Dr. von Holleben was asked as to the meaning of Germany's steps toward increasing her navy, he smilingly replied:

"Germany is a powerful nation, and I am glad to say that, like President McKinley, the Emperor or Germany is one of the most pacific rulers in the world. Naturally Germany wants an adequate navy, just as the United States desires a strong naval force, not as a means of aggression, but to maintain her interests in the world over. A navy is one of the surest means of securing peace, as it commands respect and a recognition of just rights. Moreover, Germany is a peaceful nation, where we have extensive German communities. It is but natural, therefore, that Germany desires to adopt every means for caring for her own people the world over."

WANTS CASH HE GAVE HER.

William Gurr Jilted Mary Kellner, and Now Demands the Money They Saved.

A lovers' quarrel with curious results was told before Justice Andrews in the Supreme Court yesterday. Mary Kellner, a very pretty girl, who lives with her parents at No. 103 Charles street, was the weeping heroine. She applied, through her counsel, Charles H. Greenhall, for an order vacating a judgment for $750 obtained against her by her old sweetheart, William Gurr, a disaffected sailor, who had been very badly treated by the man she loved. Gurr and she had been engaged for three years. They were waiting until Gurr should have saved enough money to start married life with. This money Gurr had stowed away in a savings bank. The little pile grew under her shrewd management. At her instance Gurr had sold his clothes and taken care of them to increase the savings and bring the wedding day nearer.

Then William Gurr, discontented and paid attention to other girls. He tried to get the money which was in Mary's name at the bank, but she refused to let him. Gurr, in the meantime, has married the other girl, and the money is gone. Mary says Mary is deep and designing, and always refused to marry him, waiting for more money, until he grew weary and married another. The money is still in bank, and Mary's lawyer says that, should the case go against her, he will put in a counter claim on her behalf, of $1,000 for board, clothing and care furnished by Mary.

LIBRARY PLANS APPROVED.

By unanimous action the Board of Estimate and Apportionment yesterday approved the plans and contract for the new public library in Bryant Park. It is to cost $2,500,000. A committee of the trustees of the Astor, Lenox and Tilden foundations, John S. Kennedy, Alexander Maitland and Dr. Billings, who is to be the superintendent, appeared before the Board, and John L. Kennedy, who is the architect, presented the documents, drawings and resolutions to be adopted. Ald. S. Coler, the Comptroller-elect, who is interested in the project, was also present.

Mr. Cadwallader said the trustees believed that the library will be one of the finest in the world.

The city is not to have any control over or rights in the books, etc., but is to receive an official report of the operations of the institution at the end of each year. The city may have access to every part of the building for general police visitation and supervision, but the trustees are to have absolute control with power to remove any person except the police on duty in the grounds, which the Park Department is to keep in order at the public expense and provide ample water supply.

Heavy Bail for Shoplifters.

Annie Drayton, alias "Big May," and Laura Moore, alias Flossie Maitland, pleaded not guilty in Essex Market Court yesterday to stealing the $1,000 worth of seal-skin coats which were found on Miss Drayton when they were arrested Wednesday. They were held in $3,000 bail, which they were unable to furnish.

"I WANT A REST," SAID THE GHOST.

So the Weary Spirit Called on a Theological Student.

SPOOK MADE FIVE VISITS.

In a Deep Sepulchral Voice It Begged Tingler to Go with It.

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 1.—Victor J. Tingler, a student in the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church in this city, the leading theological institution of that creed in the United States, has started his fellow seminarians and the faculty, as well as the student body and faculty of Franklin and Marshall College, by a growing series of ghostly visitations which he has had during the past week at his boarding house, which is located within easy distance of the classic halls of learning.

Tingler says the family and other boarders in the house fled the place a few days ago on account of nightly manifestations of a supernatural order which quite upset them, but that it remained for him to come in contact with the ghostly wanderer. During the past week, he to-day informed the professors and students of the seminary, he has had no less than five visits from the unearthly being, and has seen and talked with it, the ghost insisting every time that it wanted rest, and asking Tingler to accompany it from the house.

Tingler describes the apparition as being in the form of a man of shadowy substance and with a deep sepulchral voice. When the last visit occurred, which was last night, Tingler says, a student of Franklin and Marshall College, Ralph Zimmerman, was calling upon him. The latter was standing in the doorway of Tingler's room when the light suddenly went out. Zimmerman says he heard a strange sort of conversation for a few minutes, which he was unable to distinguish, when the lamp's flame appeared as mysteriously as it had disappeared.

Tingler told his friend he had received a call from his ghostly guest, who desired his presence upstairs. The two students followed the mysterious apparition, which then supplicated Tingler to accompany him to some point where it said, "It may be at rest." Zimmerman prevailed on Tingler to decline this invitation.
